

The Fairground

By Rhys-Jack (Heron - year 5)

Bright, twinkling lights fill the sky as brightly as the sun coming up. Children race to the roller coaster although some are terrified like mouse about to be stepped on. On top of the Ferris wheel, people scream in fear and children pass out because of how high they are.

They ~~could~~ can even see their house! When they get back to the ground, they put their faces flat on the ~~of~~ floor and kiss it.

Beside the spiral slide, a queue of people wait with their happy, excited families waiting for their turn. The owner smiled, knowing he was getting richer by the second. He hoped that one day he could buy a mansion with his money. Families leave with tired children walking back to their cars.
